

BIOGRAPHY

GRACE ARABELLA LEE

Grace Arabella Lee is a philosophical self-described introvert, thoughtful and contemplative about the Lord and her place in the world. Whilst her friends were all busy actively and constantly doing and going to no meaningful purpose, she bided her time very carefully and picked her life's paths with thoughtful consideration, remaining faithful and true to the Lord, her integrity, dignity, and intelligence.

She studied Childhood Education at USC and CSULA, and for seven years, worked as a substitute teacher for various school districts, including LA Unified. She has taught Grades Pre-K to 12, and even adult school classes at night. In addition, she has worked for a brief time as a model and an actress in minor parts, playing a high school nerd in the movie "Wishcraft," for example. Grace's radio career with American Radio Network began in 2008 with a weekly music show at KLAS and continues to the present day with a loyal following. She has successfully co-anchored a controversial talk show at sister station KCLA for a year, during which time ratings shot up, before quitting due to conflicting ethical perspectives. Her hobbies include singing as an aspiring soprano, expanding her intellectual and spiritual horizons through Philosophy, and spreading her wings in global travel. She finds her Inspiration in life from God, the creative arts, music and poetry, culture and beauty. She loves Hawaii, Maui, nature, Mother Earth, and the Lord all with high levels of Enthusiasm & Passion!

An old fashioned traditionalist at heart, Grace Arabella loves the noble architecture, history, and romance of Europe. She reverences the magic, mystery, timeless beauty, and ideals of all that uplifts and inspires us to great Nobility, be it in thoughts, deeds, or inherent in the Mind, Soul, and Spirit. Grace believes in living your truth, walking the path you have chosen with conviction and fortitude, strength and integrity. This modest church mouse has the lofty career aspiration of mixing Philosophy with music, thespianship, and the creative arts, both visual and auditory.

With KLAS since 2008, Grace hopes her listeners have appreciated the artistry and scope of the music programs aired thus far. She likens her music show to the PBS or BBC of radio, as her programs have erred more to the semi-classical variety than today's more popular and mainstream genres. The music featured on her weekly show from whence she gains and creates inspiration include classic love songs, American standards (Porter, Gershwin), jazz and blues, Broadway, operatic excerpts and arias, and other medleys of inspirational and soulful pieces of lofty musical and vocal artistry.

To Grace Arabella, music is the most Eloquent, Gallant, and Divine form of Poetry and Art. It has soul and wings that enable it to soar off the written page to awaken feeling and endow life and meaning to mere words and sounding turns of phrase. It enriches, empowers, emboldens our souls and spirits; we live within a moving musical phrase as it plays and captures us in its spellbinding capacity; we journey with our quiet souls and seek the whispered tellings of its truths and wisdom.
